

Biographical Information

Dukgeun Ahn (dahn@kdischool.ac.kr) is a Professor at the KDI School of Public Policy and Management. He received his Ph. D. in Economics from the University of Michigan majoring in international trade theory and policy. He also received a Juris Doctor degree from the University of Michigan Law School with the Scribe Award and the Eric Stein Award. During his legal studies, he worked as Executive Note Editor for Michigan Journal of International Law and did a traineeship at the Appellate Body of the World Trade Organization, Switzerland. He is currently a member of New York Bar and advises several Korean governmental offices on trade law issues. He has actively published treaties as well as articles in various academic journals. He also teaches at the World Trade Institute, Switzerland.

Clemens Boonekamp (clemens.boonekamp@wto.org) is Director of the Trade Policies Review Division at the WTO. He holds a Ph.D from Brown University.

Roberto Bouzas (rbouzas@uolsinectis.com.ar) is a Professor at Universidad de San Andrés (Argentina) and a Senior Research Fellow, Scientific and Technical Research National Council. He is also Academic Director, Graduate Program on International Relations and International Negotiations, Universidad de San Andrés-FLACSO-Universidad de Barcelona. He holds a BA in Economics from the University of Buenos Aires (Argentina) and a BA/MA in Economics from the University of Cambridge (UK).

Diego Canga Fano (Diego.Canga-Fano@cec.eu.int) is a member of the Cabinet of the Vice-president of the European Commission, Loyola De Palacio, in charge of matters regarding competition, state aids, infringement procedures against Member States, and codecision with the EP, internal market, trade. He received a Law Degree from the Faculty of Oviedo Spain in 1987, Licence spéciale en droit européen de l'Université Libre de Bruxelles in 1988, and Summer Law Diploma from Cambridge also in 1988. He was a Member of the Legal Service of the Council of the European Union from April 1994 to September 1999, was an Agent for the Council before the European Court of Justice and the Court of First Instance in more than 40 cases.

Inkyo Cheong (ikcheong@kiep.go.kr) is a Research Fellow at the Korea Institute for International Economic Policy (KIEP), Seoul, Korea. He received his Ph.D. in economics from Michigan State University, specializing in economic integration, international economics, and general equilibrium trade modeling. He has published several journal articles and books on Korea's trade policy, especially free trade agreements, and APEC's regionalism. He has been instrumental in laying the groundwork for and is actively involved in negotiating for what appears likely to be Korea's first free trade agreement with Chile. He has also been actively involved in several research projects such as economic cooperation in the Northeast Asia region, economic feasibility studies for bilateral FTAs with Japan and US, and the analysis of the impact of China's accession into the WTO.

Byung-Koo Cho (cbkcho@kdi.re.kr) is a Research Fellow at the Korea Development Institute. He holds a Ph.D. in Sociology from the University of Illinois. His main areas of interest include economic cooperation in Northeast Asia and integration of North and South Korea.

Antoni Estevadeordal (antonie@iadb.org) is a Principal Trade Economist with the Integration, Trade and Hemispheric Issues Division within the Integration and Regional Programs Department of the Inter-American Development Bank (IADB), in Washington D.C. He has been involved in numerous activities as a researcher and project team leader in the areas of trade, regional integration and cooperation and institutional modernization in Latin America and the Caribbean region. He coordinated the IADB technical assistance to the Free Trade Area of the Americas (FTAA) process from 1995 to 1999. Since 1999 he has been coordinator of studies in Integration, Trade and Hemispheric Issues Division. Prior to joining the IADB, Mr. Estevadeordal taught at the University of Barcelona and Harvard University. His fields of expertise include trade policy, regional integration and cooperation agreements related to Latin America and the Caribbean, Asia-Pacific, European Union, FTAA and GATT/WTO. He has published widely in major journals, most recently in American Economic Review, Journal of Economic Integration and Journal of World Trade. He has contributed as author in several books and edited (with Carolyn Robert) Las Americas sin Barreras (IADB, 2001). Mr. Estevadeordal was born in Barcelona (Spain) and holds a Ph.D. and M.A. in Economics from Harvard University and a B.A. in Economics from the University of Barcelona.

Baohua Jia (baohuajia@yahoo.com) is a Professor of Economics at the International Business Research Institute and Specially Invited Fellow at the WTO Research Center in the University of International Business and Economics (UIBE), Beijing, China. He was a 2000-2001 Visiting Scholar at the Korea Development Institute (KDI), Seoul, Korea, with the scholarship from the Korean Foundation for Advanced Studies (KFAS).

Wonhyuk Lim (limster@kdi.re.kr) is a Research Fellow at the Korea Development Institute (KDI). An economic historian by training, he obtained a Ph.D. in Economics from Stanford University in 1993 and taught at the Korea Military Academy before joining KDI in 1996. His main areas of interest include competition policy, privatization, and economic integration of North and South Korea. He has provided policy advice to the government on privatization and has also served as a consultant to the Asian Development Bank Institute and the World Bank. His recent publications include The Origin and Evolution of the Korean Economic System (KDI, 2000) and Economic Crisis and Corporate Restructuring in Korea (Cambridge University Press, forthcoming), co-edited with Stephan Haggard and Euysung Kim.

Patrick Low (patrick.low@wto.org) is Director of the Development and Economic Research Division of the WTO Secretariat, where he is responsible for economic research and for aspects of the WTO's work on development policy. Prior to that, he was Director of the Office of the WTO Director-General, from September 1999 until December 2001. He joined the GATT in 1980, and has also worked as an independent consultant (1988-1990) and in the research arm of the World Bank (1990-1994). He holds a doctorate in Economics from the University of Sussex, United Kingdom.

Mitsuo Matsushita (mtm@dd.ij4u.or.jp) is a Professor of Law at Seikei University (Tokyo, Japan) and a special adviser of the Tokyo law firm of Nagashima, Ohno & Tsunematsu. He is a member of Tokyo Bar (Daiichi Tokyo Bengoshikai). He was a founding member of the Appellate Body of the World Trade Organization (WTO) from 1995 to 2000. He obtained a Ph.D degree from Tulane University and a D.Jur degree from Tokyo University. He was a professor of law at Sophia University (1968-1983) and at Tokyo University (1984-1994). He was a member of a number of advisory councils attached to the Japanese government including: The Customs and Tariffs Council (the Ministry of Finance) and the Telecommunications Council (the Ministry of Telecommunications and Posts). He was a visiting professor of law at Harvard Law School (1977-78), Columbia Law School (1987-88), Michigan Law School (1990-1993) and College of Europe (1992-1995). Currently he is a member of the Industrial Structure Council attached to the Ministry of Economics, Trade and Industry of the Japanese government and an adviser to the Shanghai WTO Affairs Consulting Center established by the City of Shanghai, The People's Republic of China.

Philippe Meyer (philippe.meyer@cec.eu.int) is Head of Unit in Directorate General Trade of the European Commission. The remit of his Unit encompasses the multilateral aspects of Foreign Direct Investments and the international aspects of standardisation and certification of industrial products and Technical Barriers to Trade (TBTs). He has been regularly representing the Community in the WTO Committee on TBTs, and will negotiate the future multilateral agreement on investment. In addition, his unit is responsible for the coordination of the community trade policy with South and South East Asia and ASEM and ASEAN.

Andrea Rossi (andrea.rossi@cec.eu.int) is a desk officer at the European Commission, currently in DG Trade, Trade Analysis Unit. His main areas of interest include regional trade agreements, trade and development, and globalization. He majored in Economics and graduated cum laude from the University of Venice, Italy. He holds a Master of Arts in European Economic Studies from the College of Europe, Bruges, Belgium.

Jose M. Salazar-Xirinachs (jsalazar@oas.org) is Director of Trade Unit at the Organization of American States (OAS). Before joining OAS, he taught at Georgetown University and served as Minister of Trade for Costa Rica. He holds a Ph.D. from Cambridge University.

Pierre Sauvé (pierre.sauve@oecd.org) is a Senior Economist in the OECD Trade Directorate, in Paris, whose staff he joined in 1993 after serving as Canada's services negotiator in the context of negotiations on a North American Free Trade Agreement. He was previously a staff member of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and of the Bank for International Settlements, and has been a consultant to the World Bank, the International Monetary Fund, UNCTAD, the OAS Trade Unit as well as the Agence Internationale pour la Francophonie. During 1998-2000, he was a Visiting Fellow and Adjunct Professor of Public Policy at Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government, a period during which he was also appointed as Non-Resident Senior Fellow at the Brookings Institution. His most recent book, GATS: The Case for Open Services Markets, was published by the OECD in April 2002.

Itsushi Tachi (itachi@nira.go.jp) is Director of Policy Research Department at National Institute for Research Advancement (NIRA), Tokyo, Japan. Prior to this, he worked at the Economic Planning Agency in the Japanese government as Head of the Office of Price Structure Policy from 1995 to 1996 and as Senior Economist at the Minister's Office from 1996 to 1998. He also served as Advisor at the National Economic and Social Development Board in Thailand from 1998 to 2001. He holds an M.Sc. in Economics from London School of Economics, University of London.

Ramon Torrent (torrent@eco.ub.es) is a Professor of Political Economy and Director of the Observatory of Globalisation at the University of Barcelona. Prior to this, he was Director of External Economic Relations in the Legal Service of the Council of the European Union.

Jia-huang Wu (wujmhg@95777.com) is Vice-Chairman of China WTO Research Centre, Advisor for Agricultural Negotiations, and senior consultant on trade and investment issues. He worked at UNCTAD in Geneva as a conference affairs officer in the late 1970s, and served as GATT Director in China's Ministry of Foreign Trade in the early 1980s. After serving as Councilor for GATT Affairs in Geneva in the late 1980s, he came back to Beijing as Director-General of Tariff Department in the 1990s. He engaged in China's GATT/WTO negotiations for 13 years as a market access negotiator.