

Who We Are

KDI is the premier institution for comprehensive policy research in Korea.

Covering a wide range of research areas including macroeconomics, finance, industry, competition policy, public finance, labor, welfare, global economy, and North Korean economy, KDI delivers data-driven, objective and highly credible policy recommendations to decision-makers, rooted in a commitment to building social consensus on national agendas.

Furthermore, KDI contributes to the national economy through various initiatives, economic education for citizens, evaluations of fiscal operations for efficiency, and knowledge sharing of Korea's development experiences with the international community.

As reflected in the catchphrase of 'Research Excellence, Policy Insight,' KDI is dedicated to achieving impactful outcomes across diverse fields, thereby fostering positive changes in Korea's overall economy and society. These efforts extend beyond borders, as the aim is to make substantial contributions to the international community.
